RAGINAME VISUS LIETUVIUS UŽ JUOS VIENINGAI BALSUOTI

LITHUANIAN - AMERICAN COMMITTEE
TO REELECT REAGAN - BUSH,
EASTERN DIVISION:

Ronald Reagan

G. H. W. Bush

"... All the peoples of the United States of America share the just aspirations of the Baltic nations for national independence, and we uphold the right to determine their own national destiny free of foreign domination. The United States has never recognized the forceable incorporation of the Baltic States into the Soviet Union, and it will not do so in the future..."

*Proclamation by the President of the United States
Ronald Reagan
Baltic Freedom Day, June 14, 1984*

"...During Captive Nations Week, we renew our efforts to encourage freedom, independence, and national self-determination for those countries struggling to free themselves from Communist ideology and totalitarian oppression, and to support those countries which today are standing face-to-face against Soviet expansionism..."

*Proclamation by the President of the United States of America Ronald Reagan
Captive Nations Week, July 16, 1984*

"... In 1940, Soviet armies invaded and occupied the independent countries of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia. The peaceful, Western-oriented Baltic nations were crushed by the force of arms of their hostile neighbor. Under the cynical arrangements of the infamous Ribbentrop-Molotov agreement, the Soviet Union forcibly incorporated the three Baltic Republics into its empire..."

"... The people of the United States of America share the just aspirations of the people of the Baltic nations for national independence, and we cannot remain silent in the face of the continued refusal of the government of the U.S.S.R. to allow these people to be free. We uphold their right to determine their own, national destiny, free of foreign domination..."

*Proclamation by the President of the United States of America Ronald Reagan
Baltic Freedom Day, June 13, 1983*

"... On July 26, 1983, we mark the sixty-first anniversary of the de jure recognition of the three Baltic Republics of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia by the United States. Each of these states was a full member of the League of Nations and had signed non-aggression treaties with the Soviet Union. Yet all three countries were forcibly incorporated into the Soviet Union more than forty years ago as a result of the infamous Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact which divided Eastern Europe into Nazi and Soviet spheres of influence.

"By continuing the illegal occupation of the Baltic States under the provisions of the Molotov-Ribbentrop Pact, the Soviet Union violates international law, particularly the right to self-determination as set forth in the United Nations Charter and in subsequent resolutions of the General Assembly..."

"... Americans share the just aspirations of the people of the Baltic nations for national independence. We cannot remain silent in the face of the continued refusal of the government of the USSR to allow these people to be free. We uphold their right to determine their own national destiny, a right contained in the Helsinki Declaration which affirms that "all people always have the right, in full freedom, to determine, when and as they wish, their internal and external political status, without external interference, and to pursue as they wish their political, economic, social, and cultural development."

For this reason, the government of the United States has never recognized the forced incorporation of the Baltic States into the Soviet Union and will not do so in the future.

On this occasion, we wish to reaffirm this policy as we note the anniversary of the 1922 recognition by the United States of the three Baltic Republics. In so doing, we demonstrate our continuing commitment to the principles and purposes of the United Nations Charter and to the cause of peace and liberty in the world."

*Ronald Reagan,
President of the United States
July 29, 1983*
